"Freedom Ship: Escaping Slavery by Sea in Antebellum Atlantic America, 1829-1861"

Respondents: Iain Chambers e Miguel Mellino (Unior)

Marcus Rediker is Distinguished Professor of Atlantic History at the University of Pittsburgh. His "histories from below" have won numerous awards, including the George Washington Book Prize, and have been translated into seventeen languages worldwide. He is the co-author (with Peter Linebaugh) of Iribelli dell’Atlantico: La storia perduta di un’utopia libertaria (Feltrinelli) and author of La nave negrera (Il Mulino), among several other books. He is currently writing about how people escaped slavery by sea in 19th-century North America.
